We are the only manufacturer of both, thus MKIC possesses the unique technical capability to engineer matched systems of these two critical components. MKIC was the first manufacturer to produce photoconductors with materials that were totally organic, and this revolutionary development is now the industry standard. Today, we produce over 300 varieties of safe, long-life OPC drums to meet the many unique needs of the aftermarket industry. Along with our advanced toner formulas, we are able to create subsystems for virtually any imaging application.
